

The Log Home Community

The web's only social community for log home enthusiasts.

This rapidly growing online community site is the gathering place for log home enthusiasts, builders, editors and anyone with an interest in sharing information and stories about log homes. (Over 1 million page views in the past year)

Our community members are serious about building the log home of their dreams, and eager to share tips, photos, videos and connect with other people going through the same process.

Visitors can set up a profile, upload pictures and videos of their home and projects, write their own blog for the rest of the community to read and start discussions in the forums.

Become a sponsor:

As a sponsor, you get a 150x150 button that shows up on EVERY page of the community site. This is a direct link to your site and is a way to gain great exposure in front of a highly engaged audience.

That's not all! You also can blog one time a month and have it featured on the home page (pending editorial review).

This is a tremendous opportunity to interact with our readers who will become YOUR customers.
